Convincing and Unique Demonstrations Will Be Feature of Meeting

TWO ACRES OF FLOOR SPACE

Many Activities of Rural Cooperative Work Will Be Shown in Actual Operation—Parcel Postoffice Will Be Part of Exhibit at Louisville.

A talk or a lecture may be thoroughly convincing and delightful, but a demonstration must carry absolute conviction. The demonstrations that will be used in Louisville in the huge Armory, April 7, 8, 9, 10, are sure to attract the attention of the farmers, their friends and neighbors who come to the Conference. A short list of some of these various demonstrations will probably give some idea of the wide scope of this meeting. Men who understand the business will develop real organizations for the handling of (1) Poultry and Eggs; (2) Vegetables and Small Fruits; (3) Farm Products; (4) Dairy Products; (5) Live Stock; (6) Purchase of Farm Requirements; and (7) Cooperative Credit. In these organizations that will be developed, an effort will be made to show exactly how the testing, grading, standardizing and packing of all the various products is done. Directors for shipping, selling, the making of returns and the finding of markets will be made features of these demonstrations.

Besides these cooperative organizations that have just been mentioned the United States Postoffice Department has arranged for space in which to equip a complete parcel post department. Instead of its being merely a dummy affair with an exhibit, parcels will be handled and sent out as they are in any great postoffice. Several of the late retail stores of Louisville will send their parcel post packages direct to this office instead of the main postoffice, so that there will be continuous work in handling the mail during the whole time the Armory is open for exhibition purposes. In addition to the handling of packages from the city to the country, experts will be present to show anyone how to pack eggs, butter and country produce of every type. Very few people know very much about the parcel post as yet, and this illustration should prove a tremendous advantage to those visiting the Conference.

THE BANKER-FARMER

B. F. Harris, of Illinois.

It seems rather odd to find on our desk a new magazine with the above heading. It has always seemed to us as if the bankers and the farmers did not know each other as well as they should. In running over this splendid magazine, which is a monthly review of the State Bankers' Association of thirty-seven states, their agricultural committees and the individual banker in agricultural matters, it seems to be most timely. It claims among its items of interest "public welfare, in connection with an effort to obtain and hold successful and permanent agriculture through better farming, marketing, education, roads, rural life and credits."

All the wide-awake folks who meet at the Conference for Farmers and Business Men in Louisville to discuss rural matters during the four days, April 7, 8, 9, 10, will have a chance to hear the editor of "The Banker-Farmer," Mr. B. F. Harris, of Champaign, Ill. He is not only the editor of this strong, clean publication; but he is, also, the very successful vice president of the First National Bank of Champaign and chairman of the Agricultural Commission, which was developed under the auspices of the American Bankers' Association.

Railroad Rates.

The railroad people of the South have been quick to see the tremendous advantage of quickening interest in rural life through the Conference of Farmers and Business Men in Louisville, April 7-9-10, and have allowed a very low rate, one fare plus 25 cents for the round trip.

DAIRY

WINTER CARE OF THE CALF

First Essential Is to Separate Young Animals From Older and Stronger Stock—Need More Feed.

The first essential to calf-raising in the winter is to separate the young animals from the older and stronger stock.

Some farmers, in fact, most of them allow cattle of all shapes and sizes to run together, but where this is done, the larger ones naturally crowd the smaller and weaker members out of the most comfortable parts of the winter quarters—even forcing them to spend the severest portion of the night exposed to the rough elements.

Such a course is unprofitable for two reasons, to say nothing of the suffering to which the helpless calves, with their unsupple constitutions, thus are subjected.

They will require more feed to keep their bodies warm and offset the detrimental action of the severe cold.

Then, no matter how much they are fed the exposure stunts their whole general system to such an extent that their delicate tissues and organs never will develop as they would if a steady, undisturbed growth had been maintained from the start. An undesirable dairy or stock animal is thus developed.

Again, the farmer has not the time to watch the cattle and see that the calves get their full share of the feed. Just notice the herd some morning if you are feeding the calves, dairy and stock cattle all together, and you will observe that the little fellows are getting only a bit now and then as they dodge about among the other cattle. Indeed, they are even very liable to be badly injured besides by some of the larger animals.

Furthermore, even if it were sensible or profitable to allow the calves to run with the other animals, they require more time in which to eat and they will do much better if rations peculiarly adapted to their needs are given them.

In case one is handling a considerable herd of stock calves they should be placed in separate quarters from the others. Even the lot in which they exercise or have their feed racks for forage, should be arranged so the larger animals will not have access to it.

Individual feed troughs or boxes cannot be furnished in a case like this, but long troughs should be provided, their size being sufficient to permit all the calves to eat without crowding some way, as the larger ones soon acquire the habit of cheating the smaller and weaker ones out of their feed.

Where one is raising only a few calves, especially if they are for the dairy herd, they should be housed as above advised, and in addition they should be trained to the halter. Teach them to stand tied in their stalls and to lead anywhere desired.

DAIRY NOTES

Milk the cows quietly, quickly and on time.

Provide comfortable quarters for milk cows.

As a rule the best market is your home market.

Give a balanced ration—clean, wholesome and appetizing.

Clean the dairy stable in summer just as regularly as in winter.

Apply intelligent labor to your dairy and watch the income increase.

Oats and pea hay is a nutritious and valuable feed if cut at the right time.

Weed out the unprofitable cows by use of the Babcock test and the scales.

Milk the cows clean every time if you would keep up a uniform flow of milk.

The dairy cow is naturally of a quiet disposition and should be quietly handled.

Sunshine, pure air and clean stables are necessary for successfully managing a dairy.

The market for other stock may fluctuate, but a good milk cow always brings top prices.

The cow disease, tuberculosis, is nothing more than cow consumption. Poor barn ventilation helps it along.

POULTRY

DESTROY ALL AILING FOWLS

Disease Generally Attacks Most Susceptible of Flock and They Should Be Killed at Once.

(By M. E. GRIFFIN.)

Most ailing or diseased chickens or hens had better be killed than doctored. In the first place it is by far the quickest way. Again, it at once does away with any risk from contagion. Moreover a once sick hen, even if she does seem entirely recovered, seldom develops into a first class layer, and second class layers seldom pay.

There is another point, often overlooked. Disease generally attacks the weakest or most susceptible of the flock, and no flock was ever benefited by keeping in it birds of this kind when it is known they are such. It is true that now and then some trivial thing may all an otherwise strong bird, and it would be a mistake to give her no opportunity to recover.

We have had cases of limberneck, bumblefoot or slight lameness or cold, that yielded promptly to treatment. A few drops of pain killer or other hot drink seems to work on limberneck even more quickly than on a cold, and opening the swelling and applying some cleansing healing wash has been about all we have ever found necessary for bumblefoot.

But, as a rule, ailing hens or chicks, particularly if they persist at all in ailing, we think had better be killed and burned or buried deeply.

WHY SOME POULTRYMEN FAIL

Lack of Thorough Investigation Before Taking Up Industry Has Been Usual Cause of Failure.

While there is a great profit in raising poultry, failure of special poultry farms is frequently reported.

Lack of proper investigation before going into the enterprise has been the usual cause of lack of success. Then, too, perhaps, bad locations, lack of the necessary amount of capital, careless investment, improper choice of breeds and character of buildings had a great deal to do with the trouble.

Some of the essential features in the successful handling of a poultry farm are the development of the young stock, proper feeding, proper marketing, the right kind of labor, etc. Specialization in poultry is just as profitable as specialization in any other branch of agriculture. A careful account of expenses and receipts must be kept, so that a check can be made from time to time on the business. Moreover, poultry in small lots are very adaptable to people not in the best of health and particularly to women, who are adapted to the raising of farm fowls.

GRAIN NEEDED FOR POULTRY

Corn May Be Used as Food to Advantage, but It Must Be Supplemented With Something Else.

Grain is the staple food for poultry, and will be used for that purpose as long as fowls are kept on farms; but hens cannot give good results on grain alone. It is beneficial to them, says the Fruit Grower, and will be at all times relished, but the demand of the hens is such as will call for variety. In the shells of eggs, as well as their composition, are several forms of mineral matter and nitrogen, which can only be partially obtained from grain.

Even grains vary in composition, and when fowls are fed on one kind for a long time, they begin to refuse it, as they may be oversupplied with the elements in the food partaken and lack the elements that are best supplied from some other source. For this reason they will accept a change of food, which is of itself an evidence that the best results from hens can only be obtained by a variety of food. Corn and wheat may be used as food with advantage, but it must be given as portion of the ration only, and not made exclusive articles of diet.

Water for Ducks.

Ducks kept entirely on land must have deep drinking vessels, so they can get their heads under water. Where shallow vessels or troughs are used they gum up about the eyes, become listless, sit about, lose their appetites and eventually die.

Meat Food Lacking.

Feather-pulling fowls usually lack meat food.

DEFINITE PERIODS TO PRUNE

Popular Subject for Individual Disputes as Practically Every Month Has Its Advocates.

The best time to prune trees has always been a popular subject for individual dispute. Practically every month in the year has its advocates. This fact indicates that there may be some truth in the old loose-jointed rule that the time to prune is when the saw is sharp. At any rate, we may infer that under certain conditions, pruning may be safely done at any time of the year. However, it is best always, even in the care of the home orchard, to have two definite periods during the year in which to prune: once during the dormant season, from November to April, and once in the height of the growing season, along in June.

Both winter and summer pruning have their advocates, but the object to be gained in pruning really should be the determining factor, as the effects of the two is almost opposite.

Winter pruning tends to check the growth of fruit buds, and encourages wood growth, including the formation of water sprouts. On the other hand summer pruning promotes the formation of fruit buds, and checks wood growth. Sometimes these results are very marked, but usually are not conspicuous enough to attract attention of the grower.

There is always much more time in the winter to do the work—an important consideration on the general farm. The men also usually do the pruning better, and the brush can be disposed of more easily. There is also time to paint over and care for the wounds caused by the pruning that in early summer the wounds heal better. It is much easier to detect diseased or dead branches, and plant waste growth may be saved.

The physiological effect on the tree may also be much more satisfactory. However, it is not so much a question of when to prune in most of our smaller orchards as it is the one of getting it done at all. While in many cases summer pruning would prove advantageous, yet the problem is to get the orchard owner to first see the advantage of pruning even during the idle winter period, before he can be expected to spend many of the busy summer hours at this work.

A quail, being shot at by a hunter and narrowly escaping with her life, took refuge in a thicket, fainting with fright.
From a tree overhead an owl looked down upon her sardonically. "You are very silly," he remarked, "to allow yourself to be hunted so when you have the means of defense ready at your hand. If you were to stop killing the insects that prey on the wheat and the corn man would speedily perish of starvation."
The quail thanked him civilly for his advice. "However, if you don't mind," said she, "I think I prefer to go on doing what is so evidently my duty, let others do as they may."—Farm and Fireside.

A CLERGYMAN'S STORY

Came Near Losing His Life—How He Escaped

The following letter was received by The Record Co. from Rev. G. W. Roberts, R. R. 2, Box 27, Bartlett, Alabama, under date of April 2, 1914, which is exactly nine years ago. He says: "I take pleasure in the foregoing story of what your Peruna has done for me after three years of suffering. I had tried the treatment of several doctors, and been treated, but they failed and all hope had gone. My friends, like myself, thought I was in the last stages of consumption. "My daughter brought me a bottle of Peruna and I tried it. I had no voice, and I thought it no use. That was in May, 1902. I began to feel better, according to directions. I wrote to you, and you gave me your kind advice. "I soon felt better, my cough began to give way, and the expectation lessened. I have taken fourteen bottles. I feel well, eat heartily, sleep soundly, weigh as much as I ever did, do considerable work on my farm, and attend to my other business. My friends seem astonished at my recovery. "I wish to thank you for your kind advice and the books you have sent me. I shall ever praise your medicine and hope that you may enjoy a long life." It will be observed that Rev. Roberts waited two years after he began to use Peruna, before he wrote the above letter to The Record Co. He said his apparent recovery could not possibly have been temporary relief. In a later letter to The Record Co., dated September 22, 1906, Rev. Roberts says: "I am a great friend of Peruna. By the use of Dr. Hartman's advice I am here to-day, able to be with my family and attend to my business."

We quote from another letter, dated December 10, 1911, in which I praise Peruna to all the people I know. I am a man, and I am a people know me, and I am a people know me. In a letter dated November 22, 1904, we quote Rev. Roberts: "Peruna gave me back my life ten years ago. All my acquaintances know that. I am certainly thankful to you for your medicine." In a later letter, dated January 12, 1910, he says: "I shall ever in the future, as in the past, be ready to speak in praise of Peruna to all suffering men. I believe my untimely cure has been the means of many others being cured in this county." From a letter of September 5, 1911, we quote a few words: "I am still among the living. As to Peruna, I do not feel that I have words to express the faith I have in its merits. I feel that Peruna has been the means, through the kind providence of God, of prolonging my life for more than ten years."

We quote a still later letter, October 21, 1912. He says: "I took a severe cold three weeks ago. I am once sent for Peruna. Have been taking it two weeks. I am now better. I consider that Peruna has carried me over a dozen years of life. I always stand ready to answer any question in reference to Peruna."

We quote from his last letter, dated January 2, 1913: "Dear Friends: I wish this bright New Year to express my thanks to you for your kindness. Thinking that you may have a successful and happy year, and that your medicine may prove a blessing to many as it has to me, I am yours as ever, G. W. Roberts, Bartlett, Alabama, R. R. 2, Box 27." It is not necessary for us to add any words to this story. The eloquence and pathos of these letters are more convincing than arguments or affidavits. Who can doubt the clergyman's story? Who can doubt that Peruna saved his life? Every home should be provided with the last edition of the "His of Life" sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

This Stomach Remedy Helps Your Friends.

Almost every day some grateful person comes into our store and tells us of benefits received from the use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Knowing how much good they have done others and knowing what they are made of, we feel sure they will help you. So great is our faith in them that we urge you to try them entirely at our risk, with our personal promise that if they don't do all you expect them to do and make your stomach comfortable and healthy and your digestion easy, we'll hand back your money.

We couldn't endorse anything any more strongly than we do Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Containing Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science, they soothe the stomach, check heartburn and distress, promote a natural flow of the gastric juice, and help regulate the bowels. Remember, if they don't make your digestion so easy and comfortable that you can eat whatever you like, we want you to come back and tell us and get your money. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only at our store. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00—Countler's Drug Store, Greenville, Ky.

Fire Insurance Companies Withdraw.

There has been almost universal withdrawal of fire insurance companies from the State since the enactment of the Green Glenn bill for the regulation of rates, the companies declaring that the proposed rates, and the supreme power of the commissioners over the affairs of insurance concerns will prevent the business being done except at a loss, and under embarrassing hindrances. The framers of the bill claim that insurance rates have been extremely high in Kentucky, and that the companies have been making an average net profit for some years of about 20 per cent, collecting in ten years over $12,000,000 and have paid in fire losses only about $5,000,000. This is denied by the companies, but they will submit no data in rebuttal. To overcome the withdrawal of the foreign companies, it is being planned to organize home companies, to care for the business, which can be done profitably, it is claimed, at the rates proposed. In the meantime there is considerable agitation, and much pressure is being brought to bear to arrange matters so that the interests of the State may not suffer on account of a lack of insurance. It is hoped the best solution may be reached, but there is a general feeling that rates can be materially reduced and still leave the companies full remuneration for the money they disburse.

Two Have Lucky Escape From Flames.

Miss Lucile McNary discovered her dress afire last Friday and ran screaming to her mother, who was in the yard. With rare presence of mind the mother threw the girl to the ground and rolled her in the mud, quickly extinguishing the flames with no injury to the girl. Mrs. McNary was rather severely burned on the hands, but will soon be able to be out. It was a lucky termination of what might have been a fatal affair.

Millinery Opening March 24-25.

Newest offerings in spring and summer millinery will be shown by Ros & Drake, upstairs in R. Martin & Co. building, on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 24-25, and everyone is invited to call and inspect the various goods offered for your approval. Extensive stocks have been provided, and it is hoped the goods will please as well as the reasonable prices are sure to do.

Notice to A. S. of E. Members.

The County Union of the A. S. of E. will meet in regular session April 2nd and 3rd at the Court House in Greenville. All locals are requested to elect delegates to be present as business of importance will come before the body for consideration.

We had hoped to be able to make complete settlement for the 1913 crop of tobacco by that time, but owing to the dry weather in March tobacco is not stripped. Our delivery has been very satisfactory indeed, and if members will do their duty there is no reason why we should not be able to control the entire crop this year. Therefore we hope all locals will have a full delegation at the County Union.

The County Secretary informs me there has been no settlements made by the local secretaries for the 1914 dues. The County Union voted a penalty of 10 cents on the quarter. The Secretaries will please report their locals to the County Secretary that they may save this penalty.

Purveyor-Rice Wedding Announcement.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Puryear and Mr. C. J. Rice, which will occur on April 22. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Puryear, and one of the most popular young ladies of the city. Mr. Rice is a civil engineer of much ability, has been elected county surveyor, and professionally and personally is held in the highest regard, being a young man with a bright future. Congratulations and best wishes are being showered on the couple by friends from far and near.

Hon. M. J. Fanning addressed a large audience at the Methodist church last Friday night on the evil effects of the liquor traffic, and his talk was highly interesting and convincing. He has delivered more than 18,000 talks, in every part of the country, and there are no phases of the question which he does not understand.

Spring and summer millinery on display March 24 and 25. You are cordially invited to come in and inspect our line of Ladies' Misses' and children's hats of the latest styles at reasonable prices.

Important Real Estate Deals.

Two of the most important real estate deals that have been made here in some time were closed last week, and show the increasing values of such property in the city.

Mr. Scott Dexter sold his home on East Main cross street to Mr. W. H. Gray, the consideration being $2,800. The building is new and modern, and a highly desirable home. Mr. Dexter and his wife will move to Central City and Mr. Gray and family will soon occupy the house.

Mr. M. B. McDonald last week purchased the home of Mrs. Lucy Tinsley, corner Main and Hopkinsville street, at a price of $3,000, which is considered very reasonable, this property being much sought as soon as it was put on the market. The house is commodious, and the location is one of the best in town. It is being occupied by the new owner.

Mayor's Proclamation.

Inasmuch as numerous dogs have developed rabies, and some of them very recently, it has been recommended by the county health officer that the time be extended until May 1, 1914, until which date it will be unlawful for any dog to be allowed to run at large in the city of Greenville before that date. Therefore, to protect the people of our city, I hereby order that no dog be permitted to run at large, unless properly muzzled. This order is to continue in force the order of February 10, 1914, as issued, and police officers are directed to enforce its provisions rigidly.

Given under my hand as mayor of the city of Greenville, this 19 day of March, 1914.

T. J. Sparks, Mayor City of Greenville, Ky.

IF SO USE LIV-VER-LAX

Read Following Statement From Prominent Greenville Druggist

We have recently received a large shipment of GRIGSBY'S LIV-VER-LAX, the liver medicine which we recommend above all others. When troubled with constipation, or a disordered liver, do not take calomel or other harsh physics to derange the system, but let us supply you with a bottle of LIV-VER-LAX on our personal guarantee, that is, if it does not do all that we claim for it, and if you are not perfectly satisfied we will cheerfully refund your money. A sluggish and inactive liver is the cause of most all diseases. Keep your bowels open and liver regulated with LIV-VER-LAX and you will not be sick. LIV-VER-LAX is purely vegetable, is pleasant, safe and effective, and is good for grown-ups and children all alike. We have unbounded confidence in LIV-VER-LAX, is why we recommend it so highly. We believe LIV-VER-LAX has given more universal satisfaction than any other liver medicine we have ever sold.

MONEY, because of the material it can buy, the political influence and the social prestige that its possession facilitates, becomes an effective enemy of friendship. The remedy is, to be sure, to use it as soon as one has even a little bit of it, in friendly ways.

THINGS WE LIKE TO KNOW.

To keep comforters and blankets clean, have a strip of white cloth about twelve inches wide to face the ends of the bedding used next to the face.

Ice can be made to last almost twice as long by wrapping well in newspapers.

When a crack appears in a stove it may often prove a great menace to life, especially if it is a coal heater. Mix wood ashes with common salt made into a paste with a little water, and plaster over the crack. It may be put on to a cold or a hot stove equally well.

Health Bran Bread.—Take two cups of Graham flour, two cups of bran, two cups of white flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one egg, one pint of milk, or buttermilk, one cup of New Orleans molasses, one cup of raisins, two teaspoonfuls of soda and a half cup of boiling water. Mix well and steam three hours. Bake a half hour or more in the oven to dry off. Put into one pound baking powder cans and remove the covers when put into tins.

When one has part of a bottle of olive oil, pour a tablespoonful of olive oil over the liquid in the bottle and they will keep indefinitely without becoming rancid.

A magnet heated in the oven will make a fine safe foot warmer, or take the place of a hot water bag without any fear of a leak.

When putting pockets on aprons, place a small piece of the goods at each corner and stitch down twice, then nothing short of a wrench will tear it down.

Those who use radiators will find that a piece of paper may be placed on the radiator and it will cover, will continue cooking. This is especially good for long cooking.

Before heating it for baking. The moisture runs down into the hinges of the door otherwise, and will in time rust them.

One mother who has several children away from home writes with impression paper, thus making as many copies as she needs. Each gets his letter, with any personal additions, with the work of but one.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

ON your work and be strong.

Do not in your ways, Baking, the end half won For an instant dose of praise, Stand to your work, and be wise, Certain of sword and pen, You are neither children nor gods, But men in a world of men.

—Rudyard Kipling.

SOME GOOD THINGS.

Stir up with a spoon, a soft biscuit dough and fill greased muffin pans half full. Make a hollow in the center and fill with a little marmalade or jam. Bake in a quick oven and serve with cream or a liquid sauce, flavored with lemon juice or vinegar. This is a good emergency dessert to keep in mind when there seems nothing to have for dinner.

Spanish Rice.—Fry two large onions in salt pork drippings, then add one pint of tomatoes; when well boiled add a pint of cooked rice. Set back on the stove to cook slowly, or in the oven for a half hour.

Chili Con Carne.—Boil until tender two cups of the little brown beans. Grind a pound of round steak, put into a saucepan to cook with cold water to cover; add a tablespoonful of butter, as much red pepper as you can endure, and cook an hour and a half. When the beans are tender, add them and cook an hour longer.

Spaghetti.—Fry a clove of garlic in a tablespoonful of olive oil or butter and two tomatoes, sliced, cook until the tomatoes are smooth and cooked in the oil. Prepare the spaghetti by boiling in salted water until tender. Drain and add to the tomatoes, well seasoned with salt and red pepper.

Garlic is one of our most wholesome flavor vegetables, but is in disrepute because of the unwholesome manner in which it is used by some. There should be just a suggestion of the flavor, elusive and indefinable, to make a perfectly flavored dish. Garlic is said to help digestion, and serves one from epidemics and pestilential diseases.

TOY STRAP FOR THE BABY

Pretty Present That is Sure to Be Appreciated by the Recipient and His Mother.

A toy strap makes a splendid present for a tiny child, and can be carried out in various ways at a trifling expense.

For a baby carriage or wheeled chair strap, I invest in a leather strap, with ends which buckle on to the sides of the seat.

I pierce a set of eight slits, each one an inch long, arranged in sets of two, one above the other, and a couple of inches apart across the front of the strap.

Then I get four small toys and tie each one round the middle with a 10-inch long strip of narrow colored ribbon.

The other end of each ribbon is passed through one of the double slits in the strap, so that the toys dangle in front of baby, ready for him to play with while he is out.

If the ribbons are secured with a wee bow the playthings can be untied and fresh ones substituted at will, and half a dozen extra toys, each one fitted with a ribbon string, might accompany the strap.

The same idea can be satisfactorily carried out for a baby's cradle by substituting a length of pink or blue ribbon for the strap, and getting woolly toys to dangle from blue baby ribbon strings within reach of the tiny fingers, a small woolen rattle, a very bright-hued ball, a fluffy rabbit, and a bone ring for biting, the narrow ribbons from which the toys are suspended being sewn, at short distances apart, onto the wider ribbon, which must be provided with long enough ends to allow of their being tied to either side of the cradle.—Exchange.

NEW USES FOR FILET LACE

Pretty Material is Being Employed for Practically All Possible Purposes.

New uses are being found for fine filet lace. Last year pincushions, caps, pillow cases, work bags were made of it, and now comes a list of other ways in which to utilize this smart looking though inexpensive material.

Some of the prettiest things combine the imitation lace and the narrow real lace edge. Baby spreads of this square motif material may be finished with a firm crocheted edge and lined with colored or white crepe de chine or soft silk. The finest of these filet squares, buttonholed on sheer handkerchief linen, make charming cushion tops and nightgown cases. In this material, really meant for curtaining, the best designs are the classic.

Boudoir caps and little morning jackets are made of soft filet lace and lined with pale chiffon and trimmed a bit with clusters of chiffon roses.

One of the novel ways in which to use these small motifs is to apply them to paper or tin talcum powder boxes, first pasting on a layer of flowered ribbon or colored silk. A finish of narrow gold braid or tiny ribbon fringe around the top adds decidedly to the effect.

Shades for boudoir lights or candles are also made of these lace squares put together with a narrow beading and finished with linen fringe.

BUTTONS ARE OF ALL KINDS

Manufacturers Have Put Forth Some Really Wonderful Designs and Colorings.

The distinguishing characteristic of the new buttons is the pronounced representation given to odd shapes, many of which are evidently of Cubist inspiration.

Among the most striking novelties are the crystals with Mosaic designs in Chinese colorings. These unusual effects are accomplished by means of carving and by painting the designs underneath the crystal.

Many dainty floral designs, accomplished in like manner, are shown, some of which are tersely given the title "hot house" buttons.

Chinese novelties in colorings typical of Chinese embroidery are typical of smartness. In many of these novelties rich burnished tones predominate. Some of them resemble Chinese lanterns. Black glass or crystal is much favored as the background for these brilliant Chinese effects.

The Chinese colorings are even more strikingly emphasized in the semi-ball buttons, some of which are half one color and half another. Others are divided into as many as four sections, each of which is in a different color.

Among the extremely new effects are the fruit buttons in realistic shapes and colorings.

FRUITS OF MAKE-BELIEVE

By O. L. CARSON.

Little Mrs. Gray fluttered into her guest's room with a pasteboard box in her hand.

"Helen," she said, "I want you to do something for me. See this pretty beautiful silk muffler? I have bought for Allan's birthday present? Well, his birthday is three weeks off, but I want him to wear the muffler tonight. Please pretend that you have bought it for one of your friends and offer it to Allan to wear. His old muffler is quite shabby and he's going to an important business men's dinner. It's necessary I think, that he should look prosperous, and he can't look prosperous while wearing a worn-out old muffler, can he?"

"No, Laura, I suppose not," agreed Helen. "But, really, wouldn't I be sailing under false colors if I—"

"Never mind that, dear. It's only a joke, you know. I do want Allan to have the use of the muffler and I don't wish to spoil the birthday surprise by giving it to him now. He's out in the hall this minute getting ready to start out. Let's go and insist upon his wearing it."

In a moment Helen found herself offering the muffler to her host with a careless generosity that quite surprised herself.

"But I hate to take the new off a present you have bought for some friend, Helen," protested Allan, who would really have preferred his old silk scarf.

"I'm very glad to have you try it out for me," laughed Helen.

"Oh, Allan, it's so becoming to you," said his wife. "That soft gray just suits your complexion. Don't you think he looks nice in it, Helen?"

"Yes, indeed, Laura," agreed Helen, smiling.

"Allan, do be careful not to lose it. Helen, you have no idea how perfectly reckless Allan is with his belongings. When you have a husband, you'll see how much care a man is. Now, Allan, perhaps I'd better fasten this muffler to your overcoat collar with a little safety pin. I'm sure I don't want Helen to be worried about it."

"I shan't have the least anxiety," declared Helen, who marveled at her friend's gratuitous play acting.

"Well, do be careful, anyway. I should so hate to have you lose it, Allan, the way you lose umbrellas."

"Perhaps I had better not borrow it. I can usually be trusted, Laura, not to scatter my wearing apparel about the city, but if you—"

"Nonsense. It is a great deal better looking than your old one. Please keep it on. Helen will be hurt now if you don't wear it. Won't you, Helen?"

"Yes, indeed, I shall," asserted Helen, dutifully.

So Allan, trying to look pleased and gracious, thanked her again and went to the dinner, wishing with secret irritation that his wife would not be quite so anxious about his appearance.

The next morning while Helen was packing her trunk to leave Laura came into the room with the muffler.

"Now, wasn't it just like Allan to go to business without even thinking of returning this to you?" she asked. "I took it out of his overcoat pocket before he was up, and he never need fear you see, men are really awfully careless. Do you want me to caution him not to lose it?"

"No," murmured Helen, absently. "She was a little tired of the muffler."

"And wasn't it just splendid that he never suspected it was really his own muffler that he was wearing? You know, when he was thanking you so effusively last night I could hardly keep my face straight."

"Nor I mine," sighed Helen. Two days after Helen reached her own home she received a gray silk muffler from Allan. It was a much handsomer and more expensive one than that which he had supposedly borrowed from her.

"My dear Helen," said the note which accompanied it, "Laura was right, after all. I should have cast away my pride and allowed her to pin that muffler of yours to my overcoat. I have to confess that her anxiety was not unfounded. I must, indeed, be the careless creature she thinks me, for I did lose your muffler. When I went to take it out of my overcoat pocket to return it to you I was astonished to find it gone. I hope that the one I am sending will be a satisfactory substitute for the beautiful muffler you so kindly trusted me with, and that, remembering I am a mere man, you will find it in your heart to forgive me."

"By the way, I shall be eternally grateful if you won't say anything to Laura about my losing your muffler. She is such a punctilious little woman that she would be quite upset over my fault, especially after all her warnings. So, with more apologies, I throw myself upon your mercy."

"Good gracious! What shall I do with the 'it'?" groaned Helen, with deep aversion. "I feel like a double-dyed fraud. For if anyone ever obtained goods under false pretenses I certainly have done so in this case."

Same Old Grouch.

An old lady who saw "The Merchant of Venice" many years ago recently witnessed a modern production of the same play. When asked how she liked it, she replied: "Well, Venice seemed to have been spruced up a bit since the first time I saw it, but that Shylock's just the same mean, ordinary thing he was forty years ago."—From the Boston Transcript.
